

Badb

And the Raven, never flitting, still is sitting, still is sitting

On the pallid bust of Pallas just above my chamber door;

And his eyes have all the seeming of a demon's that is dreaming,

And the lamp-light o'er him streaming throws his shadow on the floor;

And my soul from out that shadow that lies floating on the floor

Shall be lifted—nevermore.

Badb • noun / pronounced [by-ve]
Celtic goddess who takes the form of a crow.

Badb is a Celtic goddess who appears as a crow—a member of the fearsome Morrígan goddess sisters. She is a goddess who foretells doom and carnage.

Her arrival on the battlefield signalled doom on the battlefield. While she is a goddess of fate and war, she also guides souls to the afterlife.

We invite you to descend through the tunnel, into the shadowed realm where Badb guides the fallen to what lies beyond.

Local interior designer Adrian McCarthy has left his mark throughout The Brehon, from the Heritage Bedroom Collection to the Mezzanine area and now our exciting new speakeasy bar, Badb.

Drawing inspiration from the surrounding National Park, Adrian enjoys incorporating animal motifs into his interiors, and this room is a great example of that.

As the design came together, one creature stood out: the crow. Looking for a name that fitted the space, we turned to Celtic mythology once again—a nod to the ancient Brehon Laws that inspired our hotel's name, and following the tradition used in naming Danú Restaurant and Anú Spa.

We found Badb, the goddess associated with crows and prophecy, and the name just felt right.
